Flip ahead to find out more on pages 14 & 15 and our drinking game on page, 22 & 23.

DISCLOSURE: TRUMP REPAID LAWYER IN PORN STAR CASE

1 President Donald Trump acknowledged for the first time in an ethics disclosure released Wednesday that he repaid more than $100,000 to attorney Michael Cohen, renewing questions about Trump's ties to porn star Stormy Daniels. The disclosure underscored the inconsistency of explanations by Trump about a payment made to Daniels before the 2016 presidential election to buy her silence over an alleged sexual encounter with Trump. Released by the Office of Government Ethics, the disclosure also drew comment from watchdog groups and a senior Democratic lawmaker about possible violations of campaign finance law, which requires public disclosure of expenses meant to influence the election. Common Cause, a nonpartisan watchdog group, has filed a complaint claiming Trump broke the law when his campaign excluded the $130,000 payment in legally mandated filings. Trump's acknowledgment that he reimbursed Cohen puts the president "at the middle of all of the campaign-finance violations," said Paul S. Ryan, head of litigation at Common Cause. "He knowingly and willfully caused his campaign to not disclose this expenditure, and that's a criminal violation."

TRUMP: 'WE'LL SEE' ON NORTH KOREA SUMMIT

2 President Donald Trump acknowledged Wednesday it was unclear if his summit with North Korea would go ahead after Pyongyang threatened to pull out of the unprecedented meeting, a move that could deny him a potentially major foreign policy achievement. North Korea threw into doubt the June 12 summit between its leader Kim Jong Un and Trump on Wednesday, saying it might not attend if Washington continues to demand it unilaterally abandon its nuclear arsenal. North Korea also called off talks with South Korea scheduled for Wednesday, blaming U.S.-South Korean military exercises. "We'll have to see," Trump told reporters in the Oval Office when asked if the summit was still on, though he insisted he would not back down from his demand for North Korea's denuclearization. "No decision, we haven't been notified at all," he said. Trump's muted response was in marked contrast to just a few days ago when he exulted over North Korea's release of three Americans, welcoming them home with praise for Kim and an expression of high hopes that the summit would produce "something very meaningful."

SPEAKER RYAN SEEKS TO HALT IMMIGRATION REVOLT

4 House of Representatives Speaker Paul Ryan sought to head off revolts Wednesday from the right and center of his Republican Party as lawmakers battled over legislation that would protect young illegal immigrants from deportation. At a morning news conference after huddling privately with rank-and-file Republicans, Ryan warned a small group of moderates that it would be a "big mistake" if they kept pushing a procedural maneuver to force a series of votes on four separate immigration bills. Some Republicans worried such a debate could lead to a bipartisan immigration bill passing that might anger conservative Republicans at an inopportune time, with November elections approaching. Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy told fellow Republicans at the closed-door morning meeting that things were going well for them, and "let's not create a problem of our own making," one House Republican lawmaker said, asking not to be named. Ryan said he was working with the White House on a measure that would win President Donald Trump's support. At the news conference, Ryan did not provide details or a timetable for advancing such legislation.

WHISTLEBLOWER: BANNON WANTED 'CULTURE WAR'

5 President Donald Trump's former aide Steve Bannon sought to use personal information collected online to promote "a culture war," a whistleblower on now-defunct political data firm Cambridge Analytica told U.S. senators Wednesday. Bannon, a former Cambridge Analytica vice president, "saw cultural warfare as a means to create enduring change in American politics," testified Christopher Wylie, who says information about tens of millions of Facebook users ended up in Cambridge Analytica's hands. Bannon's attorney William Burck did not immediately respond to an email request for comment on Wylie's testimony. Wylie, who worked for SCL, the British-based parent of Cambridge Analytica, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that Cambridge Analytica hired hackers to collect data it then used against opponents of its political clients. Allegations of the improper use of data for 87 million Facebook users by Cambridge Analytica, which was hired by Trump's 2016 election campaign, have led to investigations in the United States and Europe. Bannon worked on Trump's campaign and became a White House aide when Trump took office in January 2017.

A plan was birthed in 2010 to create a middle-lane "greenway" on Spring Garden Street, which would be part of the East Coast Greenway, a series of paths along the eastern United States. GETTY IMAGES

RANDY LOBASSO

AFTER BIKE TRAGEDY, FIXING SPRING GARDEN STREET

A horrific tragedy took place on Spring Garden Street last weekend, and you probably read about it in Tuesday's Metro. In light of that, it's worth noting where upgrades to Spring Garden Street should be made, and what can be done to make the street safer for all road users as soon as possible.

A plan was birthed in 2010 to create a middle-lane "greenway" on Spring Garden Street, which would be part of the East Coast Greenway, a series of paths along the eastern United States which, when complete, will connect from Maine to Florida and will be completely rideable by bicycle. But that plan is not complete. Not even close.

So. Depending on the block, Spring Garden Street's bike lanes east of the Schuylkill River are either standard 5-foot lanes or buffered lanes, the latter of which are striped with a small painted buffer between the bicycle lane and the motor vehicle lane. But long term, this bike lane, like bike lanes all over Philadelphia, needs physical protection.

And there is still a plan for that. But it's changed. Instead of a median Greenway-style trail through the center of Spring Garden Street, as of a couple weeks ago, the project has turned into a parking-protected bike lane project with curb bump-outs, funds for which are still being raised.

The good news: This is a better solution. The bad: It's going to take tens of millions of dollars, and perhaps a decade, to complete.

Then there's the problem stemming from Harrisburg. Because Spring Garden Street is a PennDOT road, state legislation still needs to be brought up for a vote, especially since PennDOT will likely be involved with the construction. That bill, introduced by State Sen. Larry Farnese (D-Phila), is still sitting in the state Legislature.

So, how do we speed up the process?

First, Harrisburg needs to pass the curb bill — now. Nothing can happen until that is realized. The best way to further this process is to reach out to your state representative and demand it.

Once that is done, here's what the city should do: Flip the motor vehicle parking lane and the bike lane. The buffer between parked cars and the bike lane would be narrower than the buffer on West Chestnut Street, and there would still be a risk of getting "doored" in the bike lane by passengers exiting their car without looking. But it would still be safer.

On blocks where there is not enough room for a buffer, consider eliminating on-street parking in nonresidential areas and protect the bike lane with some sort of barrier.

Although this proposal is not a standard design, it would be a good option for both the city and the very local residents of the areas that will be protected. There is no "if" Spring Garden Street will be protected — there is only a "when."

Right now, the "when" is far in the future because of the funding and the legislation. If the city flips the parking and bicycling lane with less room than desirable as a pilot, it will give residents a better idea of what the street will look like, and how it will function, after the capital project is complete. Residents will also be better informed when it comes time to choose a final design for the corridor.

Costly Joint-Pain Injections Replaced By New $2 Pill

New pill boosts the same lubricating joint fluid as expensive and painful injections - without using a needle. Users report dramatic relief from swelling, pain and stiffness without side effects and expense.

By Jack Isler, M.D.
Health News Syndicate

HNS—A popular needle injection for people with joint pain is now available in an inexpensive nonprescription pill. The breakthrough came when researchers discovered a way to deliver the injected "relief molecule" through the digestive system.

Top US clinics have used these needle injections for years because they deliver powerful relief. Unfortunately, the shots are painful and expensive. They also only work on the joint being treated.

The new pill, called Synovia, delivers the same "relief molecule" as the injections. However, it has some impressive advantages. First, it's inexpensive and nonprescription. Also, relief is delivered to every joint in the body because it enters the bloodstream through the digestive system.

This gives it the ability to reduce a much wider variety of pain. Users report greater flexibility and less stiffness in their knees. Hands and shoulders move pain-free for the first time in years. Even neck and lower back pain improve dramatically.

All this without spending over $600 on needle injections and taking trips to the doctor every week.

The medical community is very excited about this new breakthrough. Dr. Jacob Moss says, "Synovia is a great option for those suffering from joint pain. Injections are usually a last resort because of the pain and expense. However, Synovia should be taken at the first sign of discomfort."

New Discovery

The needle injection procedure has been given to hundreds of thousands of patients over the last several years.

Doctors use the shots to boost a critical element of the joint called synovial fluid. This lubricating fluid is found between the cartilage and bones of every joint.

According to the firm's head of R&D, Mike McNeill, "Researchers have been working for years to find a way to boost this fluid noninvasively. The problem was the molecule used in the injections was too large to absorb into the bloodstream."

Top scientists conquered this obstacle by finding a smaller form of the same molecule. This new glucose form is easily absorbed by your stomach and intestines!

Now those who suffer from joint pain can get relief without painful injections. At less than $2 per day, early users like Steve Young are impressed. He says, "I've tried more pills than I can count, without any luck. Synovia is different. My knees and hands haven't felt this good in years!"

Impressive Clinical Results

Leading clinics use injection therapy because it works. Recent clinical trials show the pill form also delivers major relief.

One example is a landmark study out of Europe. In the study the active ingredient in Synovia was compared to a popular NSAID pain reliever. The goal was to see if it could reduce pain and swelling around the knee. The results were incredible!

After just 30 days, more than 8 out of 10 people who took Synovia's active ingredient had NO swelling. However, only 2 out of 10 people who took the NSAID experienced reduced swelling.

The study also looked at cases of severe swelling. Amazingly, zero cases of severe swelling were detected in the group taking the active ingredient found in Synovia. This means it was 100% effective for the cases of severe swelling!

In contrast, 9 out of 10 people taking the NSAID still had severe swelling. McNeill points out, "The impressive thing about this study is the active ingredient wasn't tested against a fake pill. It was up against one of the most popular NSAIDs people use every day. It's easy to see why people in pain are excited to get relief without an injection."

The New Way It Delivers Relief

Getting relief without injections has big advantages. The most obvious is avoiding being stuck by a large needle every week for 5 weeks.

Another downside of injections is the doctor can "miss". The needle needs to be inserted into a precise spot in the joint to work. Otherwise, you risk the treatment being ineffective.

However, boosting your lubricating joint fluid by taking a pill delivers relief to all your joints, not just one.

There's an additional reason the active ingredient in Synovia works so well – it nourishes the cartilage.

McNeill says, "This is vital because cartilage does not have blood vessels. The fluid in the joint serves two very important pain-relief roles: lubrication and giving the cartilage the nutrients it needs to start re-growing."

NO MORE NEEDLES: A popular needle injection pain-killer for joint pain is being replaced. The key molecule in these injections can now be delivered by taking a new low-cost pill called Synovia.

Approved By Leading Doctors

The new delivery system for this molecule has caught the attention of leading medical doctors.

"Needle injections for joint pain have been around for years because they work. Being able to get the same relief molecule through a pill is amazing. Injections may be a last resort, but I'd recommend Synovia at the first sign of pain," said Dr. Marie Laguna.

Dr. Gerardo Pereira, a renowned surgeon from Florida says, "Injections aim to boost synovial fluid, which lubricates the joint. Those suffering from joint pain usually have very little of this fluid. Synovia helps relieve pain by boosting this key lubricant without needles."

Dr. Moss adds, "The research behind the active ingredient in Synovia is very exciting. This product is a great choice for those who haven't had success with other joint pain treatments."

110% Money Back Guarantee

Amazing feedback from users of Synovia has generated a wave of confidence at the company. So much so that they now offer Synovia with a 110% money back guarantee.

The company's president, Michael Kenneth says, "We've seen how well it works. Now we want to remove any risk for those who might think Synovia sounds too good to be true."

Simply take the pill exactly as directed. You must enjoy fast acting relief. Otherwise, return the product as directed and you'll receive 100% of your money back plus an extra 10%.

How To Get Synovia

Today marks the oficial release of Synovia in Pennsylvania. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to everyone who calls within the next 48 hours.

A Regional Order Hotline has been set up for local readers to call. This is the only way to try Synovia with their "110% money back" guarantee.

Starting at 6:00 am today the order hotline will be open for 48 hours. All you have to do is call TOLL FREE 1-888-975-6568 and provide the operator with the special discount approval code: SYN18. The company will do the rest.

Current supplies of Synovia are limited, and callers that don't get through to the order hotline within the next 48 hours may have to pay more and wait until more inventory is produced. This could take as long as 6 weeks.

BEFORE: No lubricating fluid or cartilage leads to painful bone-on-bone rubbing.

AFTER: Synovia's active ingredients lubricate joints and nourish cartilage so it can re-grow!

Dontia Patterson, after being released in February pending retrial on murder charges, is now a free man after the Philly DA's Office won a dismissal of all charges in court. COURTESY OF PENNSYLVANIA INNOCENCE PROJECT

Philly DA drops charges against convicted murderer, bashes prosecution

Dontia Patterson didn't get a fair trial before being convicted of murder 11 years ago, Krasner says in court papers.

sam.newhouse@metro.us

Philadelphia DA Larry Krasner's motion to drop all charges against Dontia Patterson for the 2007 murder of Antwine Jackson in Lawncrest was formally accepted by a judge Wednesday, ending the case 11 years after Patterson was first arrested. It's the first old murder conviction to be wholly thrown out since Krasner took office.

"The commonwealth cannot retry Patterson on a case so completely lacking in integrity," Krasner's Homicide Chief Anthony Voci wrote in court papers filed Tuesday. "Jackson's family was not well served by the false 'closure' this unjust prosecution provided. The public was not well served by the failure to apprehend the likely main perpetrator in this matter, who was killed himself a few months later." (The deceased, alleged true shooter was not named in public court filings "in order to avoid potential future violence related to this matter," Voci wrote.)

Krasner's push to drop the charges against Patterson, whose case was advocated by the Pennsylvania Innocence Project, was based on what he claims was the withholding of key evidence by police and prosecutors. Prosecutors now say a local store owner, Gregorio Mercado, who saw the shooting, said Patterson was not responsible, but was never called to testify in court. They also said prosecutors ignored a police report from a confidential informant identifying a different shooter.

"An innocent man was convicted of a crime he did not commit, and it took 11 years for the criminal justice system to right that wrong," said Marissa Bluestine, executive director of the Pennsylvania Innocence Project, which worked on Patterson's case along with pro bono attorneys from Cozen O'Connor.

Patterson was arrested for Jackson's 2007 murder, allegedly sparked by a turf war between two rival drug gangs. The first jury hung 11-1, and on retrial he was convicted by a Philly jury of murder.

In February, Patterson's conviction was vacated with support from Krasner's office, and he was allowed to go home on house arrest pending a new trial. Now he'll be free after Krasner's decision to not re-prosecute, which has sparked criticism on social media from Philly attorneys.

"The commonwealth cannot retry Patterson on a case so completely lacking in integrity."

But Krasner's prosecutors called the Patterson case an "egregious example of police and prosecutorial misconduct in hiding evidence helpful to the defense." In addition to the previously undisclosed report, prosecutors said Patterson was only arrested three months after the murder based on the testimony of two eyewitnesses who saw him from "approximately 40 yards away" and didn't accurately describe his outfit.

Pennsylvania man sentenced to life in prison for quadruple homicides

Shackled and wearing an orange jump suit in a Doylestown, Pennsylvania, courtroom, Cosmo DiNardo apologized to the families of the four victims. ISTOCK

One of two Pennsylvania men charged in the killings of four young men lured to a farm with the promise of marijuana was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison after pleading guilty to murder, while the other suspect rejected a plea deal.

Shackled and wearing an orange jump suit in a Doylestown courtroom, Cosmo DiNardo apologized to the families of the four victims, three of whom authorities said were shot dead and burned in a pig roaster by DiNardo and his cousin, Sean Kratz.

"I just want the poor families to know, I am so sorry," DiNardo, 21, said in the Bucks County Court of Common Pleas. "If there is anything I could do to take back what happened, I would do it."

"I just want the poor families to know, I am so sorry, if there is anything I could do to take back what happened, I would do it."

Cosmo DiNardo

But Judge Jeffrey Finley sentenced DiNardo to four consecutive life terms, calling his apology "false and insincere" in light of his taped description of his crimes.

"After committing these offenses, you two went out and had a cheesesteak and then went on as if nothing had occurred," Finley said.

DiNardo confessed to murder to avoid the death penalty, according to Bucks County District Attorney Matthew Weintraub. He entered a not-guilty plea in December, but later changed it to guilty as part of a deal with prosecutors.

In addition to first-degree murder, DiNardo pleaded guilty to robbery, abuse of corpse and possession of instruments of crime.

Kratz, 21, of Philadelphia, on Wednesday rejected an offer from prosecutors to plead guilty to one count of third-degree murder in return for a sentence of 59 to 118 years in prison. Prosecutors said they will put Kratz on trial for first degree murder and seek the death penalty.

The state has not executed anyone in nearly 20 years, and in 2015 Democratic Gov. Tom Wolf placed a moratorium on executions because of questionable prosecutions in the past.

The bodies of three victims — Dean Finocchiaro, 19, of Middletown Township; Mark Sturgis, 22, of Pennsburg; and Thomas Meo, 21, of Plumstead Township — were found in a common grave at DiNardo's family's farm in Solebury Township in July 2017.

DiNardo later led authorities to the nearby buried body of the fourth victim, Jimi Patrick, 19, of Newtown. DiNardo was charged with killing Patrick, but Kratz was not.

All four victims were shot after being lured to the farm last July with the belief that DiNardo would sell them marijuana, according to court documents.

The families of the victims have filed wrongful-death lawsuits against DiNardo's parents and their construction company, saying he should not have had access to guns because of prior mental-health issues. REUTERS

Antoine Guyton, 26, was charged with vandalism for spray painting the Israeli flag over the Parkway red. @LIL_YENTA ON TWITTER/PPD

Man arrested for spray painting Israeli flag

The 26-year-old was charged with vandalizing the banner hanging over the Benjamin Franklin Parkway.

sam.newhouse@metro.us

The day after border clashes in Gaza on Israel's 70th anniversary ended with some 50 unarmed Palestinian protesters killed, a Philly man was arrested for vandalizing an Israeli flag hanging over the Ben Franklin Parkway with red paint.

Antoine Guyton, 26, was charged with institutional vandalism and criminal mischief for allegedly using a "modified Super Soaker" to spray the Israeli flag near 16th and Ben Franklin Parkway with red paint May 15.

Laura Frank, PR manager for the Jewish Federation of Greater Philadelphia, said she was alerted by a volunteer with her organization that someone was spraying the flag. Frank got to the scene in time to see Guyton defacing the flag and called the police.

"As we're approaching, we saw a man with the paint gun under the flag and he was actively spraying red paint upward," Frank said. "We got some pictures, he immediately fled and we called the police. … While we're talking to them, this same man came around the corner, and we pointed him out."

Guyton, whom police said had no known address and reportedly had red paint on his clothes, was arrested at the scene. He was allegedly using a squirt gun, similar to the Super Soaker, but loaded with a 2-liter plastic soda bottle filled with a mix of red paint and water, to spray the flag, according to Philly Police Sgt. Eric Gripp.

The Israeli flag is one of the roughly 100 national flags hanging on the Parkway representing countries with significant populations in Philadelphia. Flags have been added semi-regularly since 1976.

Frank said she was unaware of Guyton's motives and wasn't sure if she'd call it a hate crime or a political statement.

"We don't like to call anyone anti-Semitic unless we know for sure where it originated from. … We participated in Israel's flag-raising on Monday, and I think there was some residual anger over that," she said. "I think this was a person's way of lashing out, and it was deplorable. It's one thing to protest and have dialogue, but to actively vandalize and do something that can be seen as a threatening gesture to not just Israel but the whole Jewish community is not OK."

"I think this was a person's way of lashing out."

Laura Frank

Mayor Jim Kenney decried the incident.

"I'm very upset to learn of the desecration of the Israeli flag that hangs along the Benjamin Franklin Parkway," he said in a statement. "Hate and anti-Semitism have no place in the City of Philadelphia. While I understand that emotions are running high and there are many viewpoints stemming from recent violence against Palestinians and other protesters in the Gaza Strip, it doesn't warrant hateful acts of vandalism."

Key US House battleground forged in Pennsylvania

Democrats are also expected to win three contests in districts in suburban Philadelphia that have been redrawn to favor them. GETTY

Democrats' quest to take control of the U.S. House of Representatives and stymie President Donald Trump's agenda began in earnest on Tuesday after voters in Pennsylvania chose a slate of nominees to compete in a pivotal battleground state.

Democrats must wrest 23 seats nationwide from Republicans to take over the House, and analysts say the party could gain as many as five seats in Pennsylvania alone in the general congressional election in November.

The most closely watched race was in the district around Allentown, Pennsylvania, where a bevy of Democrats battled to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Charlie Dent, one of the few remaining moderate Republicans in the House.

As it turned out, the most traditional Democrat in the race, Susan Wild, who was endorsed by the influential advocacy group Emily's List, won the nomination, narrowly edging moderate John Morganelli, who opposes abortion rights.

The liberal political-action group NextGen America, backed by activist Tom Steyer, worked to defeat Morganelli and said in a statement that Wild's victory showed Democrats that "to win elections, we don't need to moderate our vision or accept compromise on our fundamental values".

Scott Wallace won the nomination in another district northeast of Philadelphia that Democrats hope to turn. Wallace will face vulnerable Republican incumbent Representative Brian Fitzpatrick.

Democrats are also expected to win three contests in districts in suburban Philadelphia that have been redrawn to favor them.

Madeleine Dean, a state representative, Air Force veteran Chrissy Houlahan and lawyer Mary Gay Scanlon won the nomination in their respective districts. Currently, there are no women representing Pennsylvania in the House.

"To win elections, we don't need to moderate our vision or accept compromise on our fundamental values."
Tom Steyer

Pennsylvania's politics were thrown into turmoil this year when the state Supreme Court found that its congressional districts had been unconstitutionally tailored to favor Republicans. The redrawn map has made some districts more competitive.

In addition, six incumbent House Republicans are not running for re-election, further scrambling the races and requiring voters to become familiar with a raft of first-time candidates.

As for the Senate, U.S. Rep. Lou Barletta won the Republican nomination to battle incumbent Democrat Bob Casey in the fall. Barletta was an early supporter of Trump's presidential bid and has fervently embraced the president's policies.

Democrats must hold Casey's Senate seat and those of other incumbents and pick up two currently held by Republicans to seize control of that chamber. REUTERS

Firefighters bring smoke detectors to West Philly

Residents who need smoke detectors can call 311 to request one.

Philadelphia firefighters from Engine 5 were out in West Philly near the site of a fire last month to distribute and install free smoke detectors for residents who don't have the life-saving devices in their homes.

The Philadelphia Fire Department always sends out firefighters, members of the Fire Prevention Division and the American Red Cross to install smoke detectors in Philadelphia neighborhoods where fatal fires have occurred.

In this case, a recent fire near the Holly Mall in West Philadelphia in April was not fatal. But one man was hospitalized for smoke inhalation after an early morning blaze at the apartment complex.

Battling addiction? You don't have to go it alone

the heart of recovery

BY Amy Smith

Seabrook The Heart of Recovery, the celebrated private rehab center formerly known as Seabrook House, has recently unveiled another community mainstay in New Jersey—a fifth outpatient center in Shrewsbury, New Jersey. The new center is a reflection of Seabrook's ongoing dedication to helping individuals and families recover from drug and alcohol addiction.

"The new outpatient location means that we now have comprehensive coverage all over New Jersey. We're also very close to Philadelphia," says Matt Wolf, Vice President of Seabrook The Heart of Recovery. "This allows for easy access so that anyone in the area can get to one of our locations quickly for a thorough assessment. If they need care, we can also easily get them to either an inpatient or outpatient setting."

For over four decades, Seabrook has offered family-centered rehabilitation services that are all about healing from the inside out. This means diving deep into the root of what's causing the addiction in the first place. This inner work lends itself to a true whole-body journey to wellness that works in tandem with professional psychiatric care.

At Seabrook's inpatient center, patients are encouraged to incorporate holistic healing tools, like yoga, massage and meditation, into their path to healing. The Seabrook team also helps facilitate tactful and emotionally respectful family interventions so that the entire family unit can play a role in the healing process.

"In addition to our innovative outpatient centers, we really put our hearts into our long-term residential programs," adds Wolf. "Here, patients can stay anywhere from three to 12 months, living and getting therapy on campus, while also having access to outside support groups. This is proven to be the most effective, cutting-edge approach to lasting sobriety."

Seabrook embraces all the latest tools for recovery, including medication-assisted treatment (MAT). As the name implies, the ultimate goal of its Pathway to Abstinence program is to support a fully sober lifestyle. But in some cases, there are patients on the path who benefit tremendously from MAT. This includes drugs like buprenorphine and Vivitrol, which, when administered by a medical professional, have been shown to greatly improve the odds of long-term recovery.

"MAT is not a requirement and is very individualized," says Wolf. "Patients who take this route must first meet very strict criteria to be eligible and it also involves family support. Those who do take this route are guided 100 percent of the time by trained physicians who administer these medications in safe doses. The end result is usually a major improvement in helping patients get over the obsession to use."

Seabrook The Heart of Recovery is a recognized, accredited nonprofit dedicated to treating addiction and co-occurring mental health issues. You can find their treatment centers across New Jersey in Bridgeton, Cherry Hill, Northfield, Morristown and Shrewsbury. To learn more about their forward-thinking approach to individual and family healing.

NASA is sending a drone to Mars

NASA has unveiled new technology that could be used to explore Mars.

Mars helicopter to fly on NASA's next rover mission

The exploration of Mars, known as the Red Planet, could soon reach new heights, with the arrival of the Mars Helicopter, a small autonomous rotorcraft that will travel with the agency's Mars 2020 rover mission, scheduled to launch in July 2020. It is set to demonstrate the viability and potential of heavier-than-air vehicles on the neighbor planet. MWN

"The Mars Helicopter holds much promise for our future science, discovery, and exploration missions to Mars."

Jim Bridenstine, NASA administrator

WHAT IS IT?

- The Mars Helicowpter is a small, autonomous rotorcraft.
- Its fuselage is about the size of a softball.
- The helicopter has solar cells to charge its lithium-ion batteries.

1.8 kilograms

The total weight of the helicopter is 1.8 kilograms.

The Royal Wedding

How to watch the royal wedding

Here's everything you need to know before tuning in.

HENRIETTA JONES
letters@metro.us

You've survived the Lifetime movie (oh so bad, yet oh so good), you've watched the primetime specials and binged-watched seven seasons of "Suits." Now, it's time to make yourself a plate of crumpets, curl up on the couch in your PJs and tune in to the TV wedding of the year.

The night before
Don't pretend you haven't cancelled Friday so you can be up in time for Saturday's wedding. For those staying home who fancy a giggle, at 8 p.m., TLC is offering up the one-hour "Prince Harry: Wild No More" documentary, followed by a one-hour "Meghan Markle: A Royal Love Story" special. At 10 p.m., things get a little more serious when ABC's "20/20" focuses on the royal wedding.

How to watch:
Pretty much every major network will have live coverage of the royal wedding, because let's face it, apart from a hangover, there's not much else to compete with on a Saturday morning. However, ABC, CBS and BBC America will all live stream the ceremony from Windsor starting around 7 a.m. in the morning.

Pick of the coverage
For a less stuffy take on what it sure to be a ceremony overflowing with conservative tradition, "The Royal Wedding Live With Cord and Tish!" on HBO, hosted by the in-character comedians Molly Shannon and Will Ferrell, should deliver a lighter look at the royal wedding beginning at 7:30 a.m.

In the royal vein
Hallmark is rewarding royal-romance fiends with an all-day line up of royalty-themed movies including Markle's own 2016 Hallmark movie, "Dater's Handbook."

BEST ROYAL WEDDING SNACKS

To eat:
Scones: Served with jam and cream.
Pikelets: Again, apply jam and cream.

To drink:
Tea: Prepared in a pot and served in a cup with saucer.
Gin and tonic: Served with a twist of lemon.

From the store: English shortbread
If you're feeling fancy: Lemon elderflower cake with buttercream. Forgo the traditional fruitcake and take a stab at baking the cake the royal couple opted for.

Markle's father overshadows her upcoming wedding to Prince Harry

Meghan Markle's father overshadowed his daughter's wedding to Prince Harry by sowing confusion about whether he would walk her down the aisle or snub the British royal family by pulling out of the intricately planned celebration at the last minute.

As royal fans convened on the genteel English town of Windsor, where Harry is due to wed the American actress Saturday, the role of her father, Thomas Markle, was still unclear after he issued a flurry of statements to an American news website.

On Monday he was reported by the Los Angeles-based celebrity website TMZ.com to be unable to attend due to a heart attack and embarrassment over whether he had staged pictures with a paparazzi photographer. But the same website said on Tuesday he had changed his mind and would go to be part of history.

TMZ later quoted him as saying the trip was off due to his need for immediate heart surgery.

Markle, who lives in Mexico, had been due to walk his daughter down the aisle on Saturday at St. George's Chapel in Windsor Castle in front of 600 guests including all the senior British royals and a smattering of celebrities.

Britain's Sun newspaper, the country's best selling, had to scramble to update its front page to reflect what it called the "Royal Sensation" of Thomas Markle's absence under the headline: "I've got heart op today." It offered four pages of analysis.

"It must be heartbreaking for them, because her father can't come because he is in poor health."
Maria Scott

"It must be heartbreaking for them, because her father can't come because he is in poor health," said 46-year-old Maria Scott, who had traveled from Newcastle to camp out in Windsor to get a glimpse of the couple on Saturday.

Harry, grandson of Queen Elizabeth and sixth-in-line to the throne, and Markle, a star in U.S. TV drama "Suits," will tie the knot at Windsor Castle, home to the British royal family for nearly 1,000 years.

Manspreaders

Yes, men have balls. Some are big, and quite a few are small. However, are testicles really such a nuisance that men must spread their legs to the maximum while seated in public spaces? Yes, I'm referring to the controversial act of "manspreading." It happens on park benches, it happens on buses, and as Instagram and Twitter will show us, it happens all too often on already crowded subways. Imagine if ladies asserted their right to "stretch out" on subway seats. I bet it'd feel great for us too, but alas, we don't have that social privilege. Not only does manspreading take up double, sometimes TRIPLE the seating space, it casts far too much of a spotlight on your junk. Women, children and, yes, even other men don't need to see that much of your crotch. I'm talking un-spreading yourself just a few inches. Come on. I doubt they're that big. Bring it on in, boys; close 'em up.

Aries You need a break. A day trip, change of scenery or get-together with someone you love to spend time with will lead to interesting information that will influence your future.

Taurus Listen to the voice of reason. An expert or older associate will be able to give you plenty of reasons to slow down and be more methodical in the way you bring about change.

Gemini Don't stop until you finish what you start. Keeping busy will help you avoid getting into trouble or being criticized for not doing enough. A romantic gesture will improve your love life.

Cancer A creative hobby or an unusual interest will take you on a journey that will open your mind to all sorts of possibilities. Join forces with someone as dedicated as you.

Leo Getting involved in activities that include friends, youngsters or creative people will push you to try something new. Before you begin, set a strict budget to avoid unwanted debt.

Virgo Ask questions and offer information. What you discover will raise your awareness and encourage you to pitch in and make a difference. A joint effort will lead to a unique partnership.

Libra Make a personal change that will ease stress, lift your spirits and make you feel good about yourself. Love and romance should be priorities.

Scorpio Consider what you can do to stabilize your life without giving up on your ultimate dream. Balance, integrity and discipline combined will help you reach your destination of choice.

Sagittarius An emotional situation will escalate quickly if someone isn't being honest regarding intentions or feelings. Do your best to clarify your position and ask for what you want.

Capricorn Stabilize a situation you face at home or with one of your peers by discussing what you'd like to see happen. Offer sound advice to get the same in return.

Aquarius Stop pussyfooting around and get down to business. Monitor your expenses and concentrate on the changes you want to see happen. Personal gains are within reach.

Pisces Take a closer interest in paperwork that concerns someone else. Settlements must be handled carefully if you want to avoid being taken advantage of emotionally, physically and financially. EUGENIA LAST

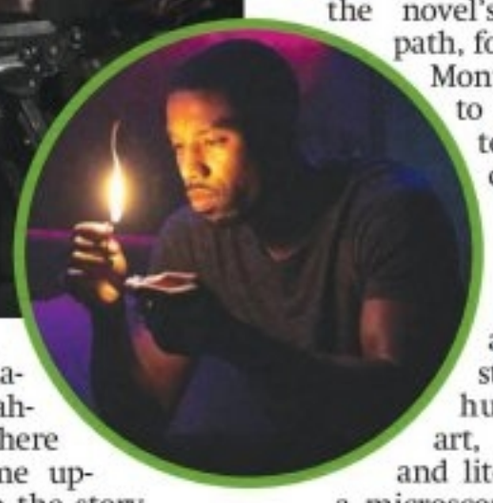
Michael B. Jordan smolders in 'Fahrenheit 451'

HBO's adaptation of the classic novel debuts this weekend.

HENRIETTA JONES
letters@metro.us

"Fahrenheit 451" debuts on HBO this Saturday.
ALL PHOTOS BY MICHAEL GIBSON, HBO



After the success of Hulu's adaptation of "The Handmaid's Tale," networks have been searching for the next dystopian fiction to shock audiences. HBO is banking on "Fahrenheit 451," based on the novel by Ray Bradbury, to be the next big hit.

Fresh from his success as the villain Killmonger in "Black Panther," Michael B. Jordan stars as Montag, a "firefighter" who's coveted role in this futuristic society is to set fire to books, not, as the audience would expect, extinguish them. It's an act cheered upon by the masses, but Montag's growing crisis of conscious, and genuine curiosity about what makes the books he burns so terrible, set him at odds against his mentor, Captain Beatty (Michael Shannon).

"He's the golden boy," Jordan said in a release. "And with that type of pressure on him, there's also a pressure to continue down that path – not to go back, not to turn left, not to make any mistakes."

In this 2018 adaptation, written and directed by Ramin Bahrani, there are some updates to the story, which was released in 1953: Montag interacts with a Big-Brother-style AI installation called Yuxie; the literature deemed destructive is replaced by emojis; and a social media v-logger helps turn Montag and Beatty into cultlike celebrities.

Some of these changes work, while some of the more ambitious ones don't. The TV adaptation veers creatively from the novel's original path, focusing on Montag trying to protect a technology developed by the resistance called OMNIS, a way to store all of humanity's art, history and literature in a microscopic strand of DNA.

However, at its core, the themes of "Fahrenheit 451" resonate with today's audience, from the rise of anti-intellectualism to censorship to the normalization of terms like "alternative facts."

"I think the message of the film and the book is very important today, when our freedom of choice and freedom of speech — our rights as human beings — are being tested. Don't always do what you're told. Do what you feel is right," says Jordan.

"That's something my character Montag learns as he starts to question what the Ministry taught him and slowly but surely begins to think for himself. Know that you have freedom of choice. Don't rely on someone else to tell you what is true or what your reality is."

"Fahrenheit 451" airs Saturday, May 19 at 8 p.m. on HBO.

SCI-FI MASTERPIECE

This year marks the golden anniversary of one of Hollywood's greatest films, "2001: A Space Odyssey."

Ahead of its time, "2001: A Space Odyssey" transcended the sci-fi genre to become of the most respected movies of all time.

Stanley Kubrick's film has been recognized for its exquisite cinematography and powerful soundtrack that puts Johann Strauss' classic compositions to the test.

Sparse but saturated, the film's palette of colors made it worthy of an Academy Award for visual effects.

But the technical achievements alone don't account for why the film so captured the popular imagination. The film is an immersion in the philosophy of Friedrich Nietzsche on the evolution of man and his devices and their dubious relationship — and whether they become tools of prosperity or war.

On the 50th anniversary of this sci-fi masterpice, Metro highlights the accolades and history behind the great visual epic that is "2001: A Space Odyssey."

FREDY ALEXANDRAKIS, MWN

The American director, although he never won the Oscar is considered one of the most important filmmakers of all time. Systematic and meticulous, he was always very careful in his choice of actors and exacting in his approach to cinematography — studying each scene, and even each shot, in search of perfection. For "2001: A Space Odyssey" he won the Oscar for Best Visual Effects. Some of the director's other classics include "A Clockwork Orange" (1971) and "The Shining" (1980). Kubrick died at 70 in 1999.

CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT '2001'

1 The HAL 9000 name is a direct reference to the giant computer manufacturer IBM, so much so that each of its letters is exactly the one that proceeds the computer company's name in the alphabet.

2 Douglas Rain, who played the HAL 9000 computer voice, never visited the film's set and did not have to deal with Kubrick's famously bad temper.

3 The film had a sequel based on a book by the co-screenwriter of "2001," Arthur C. Clarke. The film is called "2010: The Year We Make Contact" (1984). It is directed and written by Peter Hyams.

PLOT

BEGINNING OF MAN

At the beginning of the film, a tribe of primitives is held hostage by the predators of their time and cornered take refuge in a small crater on a rock. At dawn, the group perceives a black monolith and begins to inspect it — always with great caution. Soon after, a member of the tribe realizes that he can use a bone as both a tool and a weapon. From then on, man becomes the new predator, including of his own species.

Lil Rel Howery talks Kyrie Irving, Kanye West and 'Get Out 2'

Lil Rel Howery joins Kyrie Irving and more NBA stars in "Uncle Drew."
QUANTRELL D.COLBERT/LIONSGATE

The comedian has an idea for a sequel.

MATT JUUL
matthew.juul@metro.us

Lil Rel Howery became a breakout star — and a hero to TSA agents everywhere — with his hilarious role in "Get Out." While the Oscar-nominated film has opened up a bunch of doors for the comic, he hasn't forgotten his stand-up roots and is still touring the country. We recently caught up with him to chat about a variety of topics, including working with Kyrie Irving, whether Kanye West is stuck in the sunken place and if he's down for a "Get Out 2."

You have a lot of big projects in the works, including a role as Bobby Brown's business manager in the upcoming BET miniseries about the former New Edition star.
Originally they offered to play his brother and I couldn't do it. And it was a blessing in disguise because they got Mekhi Phifer to play him. But I still wanted to be a part of the project because I'm a big Bobby Brown fan. I feel like this is going to be something special, like "The New Edition Story." It's very heartfelt. Bobby was on set and he was really nice. It's going to be a beautiful miniseries.

You also recently worked with Kyrie Irving on "Uncle Drew." Were you impressed with the Celtics star's comedic chops?
Kyrie, just as an actor, is really good. He was funny, tried to be dramatic when he needed to be. He's actually extremely talented, which makes you feel bad because, whenever he gets time off, he can just come and do my job but I can't show up at the Garden [and do his].

What was it like witnessing his reaction to being traded to Boston on set?
The thing about Kyrie that I love, though, he was truly excited to be a Celtic. You saw that this season. I'm a Bulls fan. You got a Bulls fan to like the Celtics. It's insane. I've got a lot of stuff from my homies in Chicago because I'm a huge Celtics fan. I kept texting Kyrie during the season like, "Look man, I watched another game." He was like, "Bruh. Stop saying it. You don't have to apologize for watching another team." I really enjoyed the team they put together. Brad Stevens is a great coach.

GETTY IMAGES

Is Kanye West stuck in the sunken place? GETTY IMAGES

Did you ever talk about his flat-Earth beliefs?
We didn't get into it, but somebody else brought it up to him. One thing I love about people is everybody has their own opinion. Until you go to space, we really don't know what this place is shaped like until you see with your own eyes. I've got theories. I don't even know if we really went to space back when they said they did. I respect Kyrie for sticking to whatever his opinion is. But I didn't bring it up. Look, a map is flat. I can see why people would think the world is.

Speaking of people with interesting opinions, do you think Kanye West is in the sunken place?
When people think about the definition of the sunken place, I think he is there. The sunken place comes from not dealing with stuff, not dealing with pain and still being hurt over stuff and people taking advantage of that hurt. That's Jordan's [Peele] brilliance of creating the sunken place. It became like a cultural thing just to say somebody is in the sunken place. When you watch the movie, you really get it. Chris in the movie didn't deal with his mom's death for real. I think that's the same thing happening to my man and his sunken place. Hopefully somebody around him will start just talking to him. I feel like nobodies really talking to him for real.

Jordan Peele retweeted West recently, writing that he was getting inspired for a "Get Out 2." What are your thoughts on a sequel?
I called him and I'm going to try him again this weekend. I have an idea for it. At first I never wanted to do a "Get Out 2" until the light bulb went off the other day. We could probably keep doing it and there's different ways to do it. I'm going to talk to him and see what he thinks because I know the studio would be happy. It'll be very interesting. I want to brainstorm with him about it.

PLAY METRO'S ROYAL WEDDING DRINKING GAME

Meghan and Harry are getting married on a Saturday morning — it's like they want you to gather some friends and drink!

When When William married Kate, more than 14 million of us across the pond tuned in. Don't pretend you won't be one of the millions when his brother, Harry, weds American girl Meghan Markle this weekend.

America's Princess Meghan Markle will wed His Royal Highness Prince Harry of Windsor on Saturday in a ceremony beginning at 7 a.m., complete with flag-waving commoners, white horses and plenty of commentary across most TV networks.

Since they so considerately broke with royal tradition and chose to hold the party on a Saturday, we've designed the ultimate Royal Wedding Drinking Game for you.

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Whenever the following is mentioned, or shown on screen, take a sip.
2. When you hit five in a row, clutch your pearls and finish your drink.

Dennis Miller talks politics, 'SNL' and Turner Classic Movies

The comedian comes to PARX Casino this Thursday.

JENNIFER LOGUE
jennifer.logue@metro.us

On Thursday night, comedian Dennis Miller comes to Parx Casino's Xcite Center. The "SNL" alum has five Emmy and three Writers Guild of America awards to his name and has a solid show in store for his fans.

"I've been preparing a special, my ninth comedy special, that I'm filming in June. Over the last few months I've pounded it into good shape," he says.

When it comes to covering politics in his set, Miller says most of the show can be enjoyed by everyone — no matter which side you're on.

"I'm 64 and I've never seen it this angry," he says. "The special is 66% made up of material everyone can enjoy, but 33% is about the times we live in, and that includes the politics."

While Miller was viewed by the public as being a liberal, (probably due to his six-year stint as host of "Weekend Update" on "SNL" during two Republican presidencies), he's grown increasingly conservative over the years.

"If you don't walk in complete lockstep [there's a contingent of people on the left who hate Donald Trump with a white hot passion], they're going to hate you," he says.

So has Miller seen Alec Baldwin's portrayal of Donald Trump on "SNL"?

"I've never seen it. I'm not a big late-night TV guy on Saturday," Miller says. "I'm usually asleep. It's no fracas with 'SNL'; I just saw [producer] Lorne [Michaels] a few weeks ago and we had a blast together. I've seen clips where [Baldwin] squints and screams — seems to be the biggest thing in the country, so good for him."

ALL PHOTOS PROVIDED

"I like a good message when I'm reading nonfiction about the world I live in."

These days, Miller spends his free time reading and watching Turner Classic Movies. "I'm trying to read the entire bibliography of the great British humorist PG Wodehouse," he says.

"He wrote 73 novels in addition to 220 short stories and plays — one of the most prolific funnymen. I consider him a genius. If I had a scintilla of that, I'd be a happy man. I write jokes, but he's the best humor writer who ever lived, in my book."

And as far as old movies go, Miller prefers works prior to the 1960s.

"It gets into the '60s and it starts becoming more message-oriented," he says. "I like a good message when I'm reading nonfiction about the world I live in. When I watch old movies, I like them to be escapism for me."

On his visit to Philadelphia on Thursday evening, Miller has nothing but love for our city.

"I used to work with a great comedian there — the Legendary Wid," he says. "I have good memories of Philly. It always treated me well."

Chef Tom Huff of Harper's Garden

The young sous chef tells us his favorite places to eat in Philly.

JENNIFER LOGUE
jennifer.logue@metro.us

Tom Huff is the sous chef at the newly opened Harper's Garden, an outdoor restaurant in Rittenhouse serving up Modern American cuisine.

The 25-year-old got his start in the food industry early on as a dishwasher in high school.

"I remember the chef telling me I was going to be a chef one day, and I responded, 'I can't even make ramen,'" Huff remembers. "Nevertheless, I persisted, and by the end of high school, I knew culinary school was where I was headed."

Huff attended school for a time, but left to pursue an opportunity at Amada in Atlantic City's Revel Casino.

"I dropped out of culinary school and had the priceless opportunity to work with [that] team," he says. "I idolized my chefs there. They were extremely talented, demanding and taught me so much."

On that note, what Huff loves most about the food industry is the people.

"Every kitchen is a pirate ship full of a dedicated, motley crew. Everyone has an interesting story to tell and the work ethic is unmatched," he says. "You have to be a little bit crazy to do this job, and that's what I love about it."

A Philly resident since 2012, Huff knows his way around the city's eclectic food scene, and tells us where to eat sea urchin as well as where to have drinks with the best views in the city.

EAT LIKE AN INSIDER

When Huff is not working, he enjoys hiking in the Wissahickon. HARPER'S GARDEN

Best meal under $10?
Fountain Porter (1601 S. 10th St.). I've always been a fan of a good burger and they have the best one for only $5. It brings back memories of backyard barbecues as a kid — simple and delicious. Combined with a great beer selection, it's really the best value for a great bite to eat.

Best hidden food gem?
Cafe Lift (428 N. 13th St.). It's by far my favorite brunch spot in the city. When I first moved to Philly, I would wake up early to have breakfast there almost every day. I've always had a sweet tooth and their lemon ricotta pancakes are incredible. Topped with honey and fresh strawberries, they are light, refreshing and fluffy. I'm getting hungry just thinking about them.

Best place to dine alone?
Watkins Drinkery (1712 S. 10th St.) became my go-to hangout very quickly. The environment there is a neighborhood "Cheers" bar, where everyone knows your name. The first time I went in, I was Feast your eyes on this dish at Harper's Garden: roasted baby potatoes, warm goat cheese and Sumac.

by myself and the guy next to me started a conversation about what was on the TV, and then the girl next to him chimed in, and then the guy next to her. Suddenly the entire bar was in a great group conversation. This is the norm there and I've made some really great friends because of it. They do a great job with the seasonal menu, too. Their creative use of exotic proteins (ostrich, camel, frogs legs, etc...) is what differentiates them from a typical South Philly corner bar, and makes them a great place to eat outside the box.

Place you always take or recommend for out-of-towners?
Bok Bar (800 Mifflin St.). The view of the skyline from this rooftop bar, above the refurbished and historic Bok Technical High School, is breathtaking. Anyone who wants to see the beauty of our city should go.

COMEDY

Hannibal Buress

The stand-up comedian, known for several appearances on Comedy Central, television shows like "Broad City" and "30 Rock," and his regular gig as a co-host on Adult Swim's "The Eric Andre Show," Buress brings his sharp wit back around to Philadelphia. And yes, this is the same Hannibal Buress who made the by-now-historic Bill Cosby joke in 2014.

4 things to check out at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Arts Festival

The Steel City will come alive with its free arts festival this June.

patrick.king@metro.us

Pittsburgh will explode with all things creative as the Three Rivers Arts Festival takes over the city from June 1 through June 10. If you have never spent any time in the Steel City, this would be a perfect time to check out the best of what this cool and hip city has to offer along with some amazing events. And best of all, everything is FREE! Here are some of the best things to check out at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Arts Festival.

The festival is named after Pittsburgh's Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio Rivers.

1 "Six Plates for Annabelle and Maggie" by Dee Briggs

The third sculpture by famous sculptor Dee Briggs will make its debut outside of Gateway Station. Briggs' symmetrical plate work is known to be mesmerizing and we can't wait to see what she delivers for this year's festival.

The sculpture will be open to the public from June 1st to June 4 from 12 p.m. to 9 p.m.

2 Amazing live music

One thing festival goers can count on each year is an amazingly stacked lineup of free live music. This year is no exception, as the Three Rivers Arts Festival will be welcoming the legendary soul-singer and pioneer Mavis Staples to the Dollar Bank Main Stage at Point State Park. Other acts to check out include Lukas Nelson & the Promise of the Real, Ricky Skaggs and the Kentucky thunder, The Mavericks, Valerie June, Everything Everything, and many more.

Check out the full lineup of artists and schedule at traf.trustarts.org/events.

3 "Faces of Pittsburgh' by Janette Beckman

Renowned rock and hip-hop photographer Janette Beckman will bring her new photo workshop "Faces of Pittsburgh" to this year's Festival — focusing to "empower and engage students from underserved communities." Beckman will send her students out into the communities of Pittsburgh to take photos of the real people who live there and at the end, will display them on walls and billboards around town.

Classes will take place on the Gateway Lawn on June 1 through the 4th from 12 p.m. to 8 p.m.

4 The Festival's Juried Visual Art Exhibition

One of the festival's longest running attractions is the Juried Visual Art Exhibition. The exhibition will go on display at the Trust Arts Education Center nestled in Pittsburgh's Cultural District and will feature the work of the city's most talented artists. While attending you have a chance to vote — along with a panel of jurors — one which artists should take a home a $500 prize for their work at this year's festival.

The exhibit will be open to the public from June 1 to June 4 from 12 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Nick Williams has thrived in a pinch-hitting role for the Phillies. GETTY IMAGES

Williams making most of opportunity

When called upon, Williams has delivered for Phillies.

DEI LYNAM
sports@metro.us

Nick Williams did not set out to be a pinch hitter in the major leagues; who does? Still, what he set out to do and what he is doing are two entirely different things. On Sunday, the Phillies outfielder came to the plate as a pinch hitter in the bottom of the sixth with the Phillies down 1-0, two out and two on.

Williams had been in this position before. Despite his displeasure being a non-starter for much of this season, Williams made his 15th plate appearance as a pinch-hitter. He patiently waited for the Mets' Paul Sewald to throw him something he liked. On the fourth pitch of his at-bat, Williams found what he was looking for and delivered a three-run homer that put his team on top 3-1. It was the second-year player's seventh pinch-hit of the season and his second home run.

Williams' ability to come through in the clutch has not gone unnoticed by his teammates or manager. Williams now has six RBI and two homers as a pinch hitter.

"Nick Williams. Man, what a tremendous job off the bench," Phillies Manager Gabe Kapler said after the Phillies beat the Mets 4-2. "What a difficult thing to do. Come off the bench and lay the fat part of the bat on the ball and get the ball out of the ballpark. A really impressive at-bat and it's a big reward for him because the last couple of days, and maybe even more, he's matured. His attitude at the ballpark has been tremendous. His work ethic has been outstanding. And he really earned the opportunity to come in and get a big hit for us. It's a reminder that you don't have to start a baseball game to win a baseball game for your team. He did that today, and I'm really proud of him."

Earlier this season Williams expressed his displeasure about being relegated to the bench, telling Matt Breen of Philly News in April: "I guess the computers are making it, I don't know," Williams said, referencing the team's reliance on analytics when charting a lineup. "I don't get any of it but what can I do? I'm not going to complain about it because I have zero power. I'm just letting it ride."

"His attitude at the ballpark has been tremendous. His work ethic has been outstanding."

Phillies manager Gabe Kapler on Nick Williams

Nick Williams batted .288 last year in 313 at-bats. As a pinch-hitter this season, Williams is batting .466.

What Williams is learning is he does have power. He can make his at-bats count when he gets them. His seven pinch hits have him tied for second-most in baseball with former Phillies favorite Chase Utley.

"You have to stay in the game. It's a hard thing to do as a young player," Williams said. "But I have to stay ready, stay loose, and you never know what can happen."

While Williams would not choose to be a reserve, he has found his situation beneficial.

"This has matured me a lot. It's a situation I've never been in," Williams said. "It's helped me, in general, grow as a player and a person. I think I am learning the game a lot better. The chances I do get, I feel it's helping me be a complete hitter. I've been taking some tough pitches and working the counts. It's been helping me as a player."

No one argues with success. Williams is batting .466 as a pinch hitter; the Phillies have won seven of their last 10 games, and they are just one game behind the Braves for the National League East lead.

Bridges a perfect fit for Sixers

Mikal Bridges, center, is a likely top 10 pick. GETTY IMAGES

There's a good chance the Villanova star will be available at No. 10.

ANDY JASNER
sports@metro.us

Trading guard Michael Carter-Williams in 2016 essentially turned into the No. 10 pick for the 76ers in next month's NBA Draft.

Since MCW was less than stellar, it wound up being a pretty good deal when the ping-pong ball landed at No. 10 in the lottery.

The Sixers have a bevy of players to choose from at every position.

A number of flaws were exposed when the Sixers were knocked out by the Boston Celtics in five games in the Eastern Conference semifinals.

Through the draft, the Sixers can add a solid player at No. 10. They would be wise to go with a wing player who can shoot, rebound, defend and possesses a terrific work ethic.

This player was a standout on the Main Line, played every regular season home game in the Wells Fargo Center and won his second national championship in three seasons.

If available, the Sixers would immediately improve by selecting Villanova forward Mikal Bridges.

The 6-foot-7 Bridges started all 40 games for Villanova and averaged 17.7 points and 5.3 rebounds per game. In the NCAA Tournament, Bridges averaged 17.2 points and scored 19 points in the national championship victory over Michigan.

Bridges shot 44 percent from beyond the 3-point arc and 85 percent from the free throw line.

Bridges' value goes way beyond any statistical measure. He never gives up on a play. He's the ultimate teammate. He's unselfish.

And he's simply a great all-around player.

Bridges would pay huge dividends for the Sixers and would be extremely versatile with the young core of Ben Simmons, Joel Embiid and Dario Saric, among others. The two-time national champion would never complain about playing time or anything else.

He's a perfect fit in every way.

Bridges' breakout season truly began in early December when the Wildcats defeated Gonzaga at Madison Square Garden. He scored 28 points, grabbed six rebounds and proved his mettle to the entire country on national television. Bridges drained a 3-pointer then raced to the other end to record an electric blocked shot. There was also the drive into the lane and the thunderous dunk which shook the entire backboard.

Yet after the game, Bridges credited his teammates. That type of talent, work ethic and attitude will transfer perfectly to the Sixers.

"His work ethic and willingness to accept coaching have helped him grow steadily in his time here," Villanova head coach Jay Wright said. "He's a great teammate and leader. I'm confident he will enjoy a very successful professional career."

No doubt.

Bridges would be ideal for the Sixers at No. 10 in the 2018-19 NBA season and beyond. And he could definitely be riding in a float down Broad Street in another parade in a future season if selected at that spot.

DEZ STILL A FREE AGENT

Remember all that buzz about Dez Bryant potentially signing with an NFC East team not named the Cowboys a month ago after he was released? Well, that buzz is now deader than Kristen Stewart's eyes.

Bryant has only been offered a contract by one team – the Baltimore Ravens – and he declined their offer.

Bryant tweeted this week that he does not regret turning down Baltimore.

"Nope, not 1 bit and very appreciative of the offer," @DezBryant wrote. "What's crazy is how reports like this will try to tarnish someone's character … the slight jab saying it's not easy to get along with. I thought the media would give up by now with betraying me as something that I'm not."

Bryant has been very active on Twitter this week, responding to just about everyone who takes a keyboard jab at him. After @TeeJayLew accused Bryant of searching his own name on the Internet, Bryant responded: "Bro I'm not desperate about any attention … I DO NOT HAVE TO SEARCH MY NAME … I get crazy mentions lol … In all reality I've accepted what comes with this life … that's why I will be OK … most people go crazy and forget the value of real life … again I'm not media driven."

Bryant insists that he not being signed to a team yet is "his own personal decision" and does not have anything to do with teams in the NFL believing he's not worth the trouble.

MACHADO-TO-PHILS RUMORS

The Manny Machado-to-the-Phillies rumors heated up this week with the Phils playing Baltimore.

"They're a good team over there," Machado said of the Phillies (via NBC Sports). "I know they're playing great baseball and we have to play better than them this week."

Machado has many ties to the Phillies organization as Andy MacPhail, Matt Klentak and Ned Rice all worked for the Orioles. Phillies scouting director Joe Jordan was directly responsible for the O's drafting Machado and the two still maintain a relationship.

"It's pretty awesome because that's the guy who drafted me out of high school and those are things that you never forget," Machado said of Jordan (via NBC Sports).

Machado, who will be a free agent later this year, also played with current Phils Jake Arrieta and Tommy Hunter in the past.

With the Cialis Patent About to Expire, a New Sex Pill Takes the Spotlight

A patented pill costing less than $1 a dose stands to help millions of men with failing sex lives; no prescription will be required

By Ray Wilson
Associated Health Press

AHP – A new sex pill is set to take the spotlight with the Cialis patent expiring next month. But unlike the former, it won't require a prescription and is priced just under a $1 a dose.

The new pill called Vesele is part of a new class of performance enhancers for men, which work instantaneously on the body and mind triggering arousal and firmer, harder erections.

Formulated with a special compound known as an "accelerator", Vesele can transport its active ingredients faster and more efficiently into the blood stream, where it begins to work its magic.

The patented ingredient blend initiates a process known as vasodilation, which causes arteries and vessels throughout the body to expand. This allows blood to flow directly to penis and genitals, resulting in harder erections which last longer. Cialis and Viagra are based around a simlilar concept.

But what makes Vesele so remarkable, and what these other sex pills can't do, is that also directs a small portion of this blood flow to the brain, which creates feelings of intense arousal. In laymen's terms, users become incredibly excited and turned on.

This is why the makers of Vesele say their pill has worked so effectively in clinical trials. It stimulates the two most important organs for great sex, the penis and the brain.

The Brain Erection Connection

Until now, medical researchers did not fully understand the brain-erection connection. It has now been made clear with Vesele. When both are supplied with a constant blood flow, men are harder and firmer for longer...and have unbelievable sex drives.

"Most of the research and treatment methods for men's sexual failures have focused on physiological factors and have neglected the emotional ones. For the leading sex drugs to work, like Cialis and Viagra, you need visual stimulation" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the creator of Vesele.

"And although they work for some men, the majority experience absolutely no fulfillment during sex.

According to research published by the National Institute of Health, 50% of men taking these drugs stop responding or can't tolerate their side effects...and on top of that they spend $50 per pill and it doesn't even work half the time.

This is what makes Vesele so different and effective. It floods the blood stream with key ingredients which cause arteries all over the body to expand. The patented accelerator speeds up this process even more.

The result is a rush of blood flow to the penis and brain, helping to create an impressive erection and a surging desire for sex. Often, this is all men need to get going. And when taken regularly, many men say they are energized and aroused all day."

Great Sex At Any Age

With the conclusion of their latest human clinical use survey trial, Dr. Esber and his team are now offering Vesele in the US. And regardless of the market, its sales are exploding.

Men across the country are eager to get their hands on the new pill and according to the research, they should be.

In the trial above, as compared to baseline, men taking Vesele saw a staggering 85% improvement in erection hardness over a four-month period. Their erections also lasted twice as long.

These same men also experienced an astounding 82% increase in the desire for sex (libido/sex drive) and an even greater improvement in overall satisfaction and ability to satisfy their partners.

Many men taking Vesele described feeling horny and aroused through the day. The anticipation before sex was amazing. They were also easily turned on. Their moods were more upbeat and positive, too.

Faster Absorption into the Blood Stream

Vesele is made up of three specialized ingredients: two clinical strength vasodilators and a patented absorption enhancer often called an accelerator. According to an enormous amount of clinical data, each is very safe.

Research shows that with age, many men lose their desire and interest in sex. They also struggle to produce an erection firm enough for penetration.

And although there are many theories as to why this happens (including a loss in testosterone) one thing is certain, inadequate blood flow is virtually always to blame. That's why sex drug manufacturers focus on blood flow, it makes your erection hard.

But what's more surprising, and what these manufacturers have failed to consider, is that lack of blood flow can also kill your sex drive. That's because blood supplies energy for the brain. This energy is required for creating brainwaves that cause excitability and arousal.

Studies show the Vesele stimulates the entire cardiovascular system, including the arteries that lead to both the brain and penis. The extreme concentration of the ingredients combined with the accelerator ensures that this process starts quickly.

Expiring Patent Opens the Door to a New Sex Pill: Vesele is a new pill that cost just $1 a dose does not require a prescription. It works on both body and mind to increase arousal and erection hardness.

The sexual benefits of Vesele are also multiplied as its ingredients build up in the system over time. This is why many men take it every single day.

Recent Studies Show Positive Effects on Women

In the same study referenced throughout, Vesele was also shown to have an amazing (and somewhat surprising) effect on women too. That's because the same arteries and vessels that carry blood and oxygen to the brain and genitals are the same in men and women.

"In our most recent study, women taking Vesele saw a stunning 52% improvement in arousal and sex drive. Perhaps more impressive, they also experienced a 57% improvement in lubrication.

You can imagine why some couples are taking Vesele together. Everything feels better. Everything works better. Everyone performs better. It's truly amazing."

A New Frontier of Non-Prescription Sex Pills

With daily use, Vesele is helping men (and women) restore failing sex lives and overcome sexual lets downs without side effect or expense.

Through a patented absorption enhancer, the Vesele formula hits the bloodstream quickly, resulting in phenomenal improvements in erection firmness and hardness. By boosting blood flow to the brain, users also experience sexual urges and arousal they often haven't felt in years.

Where to Find Vesele

This is the official release of Vesele in Pennsylvania. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to any memory loss sufferer who calls within the next 48 hours.

A special hotline number and discounted pricing has been created for all Pennsylvania residents. Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-292-2915 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Vesele is currently available in your region.
